FOOD CAMPAIGN

Washington County Publicity Committee Tells of Plans.

In response to constant inquiries around the county as to just what the administration asks us to do in this food campaign I am enclosing you herewith some general instructions which will be distributed by the town campaign committee during the week commencing Oct. 28. Please note that the date for the food campaign has been postponed one week on account of the Liberty loan drive. W. S. Smith, publicity committee.

The men of the allied nations are fighting; they are not on the farms. The production of food by these countries has therefore been greatly reduced. Even before the war it was much less than the amount consumed. The difference came from America and a few other countries. Now this difference is greater than ever and, at the same time, but little food can be brought in from the outside except from America.

Therefore, our allies depend on America for food as they have never depended before, and they ask us for it with a right which they have never had before. For to-day they are our companions in the great war for democracy and liberty. They are doing the fighting, the suffering and dying—in our war.

Why we must send more wheat—England, France, Italy and Belgium, taken together, import in peace time 40 per cent of their breadstuffs. But now, with their reduction in harvest, they must import 60 per cent. We must increase our normal export surplus of 88,000,000 bushels to 220,000,000 bushels. It can be done but in one way: by economizing and substituting. The people of the allies cannot substitute corn alone for bread, as we can. They are using other cereals added to wheat flour to make war bread, and can thus use up to 25 per cent of corn for wheat. We have plenty of corn to send them, but, except in Italy, whose people normally use it, our allies have few corn mills, and corn meal is not durable enough to be shipped by us in large quantities. Moreover, the allied peoples do not make their bread at home; it is all made in bakeries, and corn bread cannot be distributed from bakeries. There is but one way: we must reduce our use of wheat. We use now an average of five pounds of wheat flour per person per week. The whole problem can be met if we will substitute one pound of corn or other cereal flour for one pound of wheat flour weekly per person; that is, if we reduce our consumption of wheat flour from five pounds a week to four pounds a week.

Why we must send more meat—The food animals of the allies have decreased by 33,000,000 head since the war began; thus the source of their meat production is decreasing. At the same time, the needs of their soldiers and war workers have increased the necessary meat consumption. Our meat exports to our allies are now already almost three times what they were before the war. The needs of the allies will steadily increase, because their own production of food animals will steadily decrease because of lack of feed for them. If we will save one ounce of meat per person per day we can send our allies what they need.

Why we must send butter and milk—The decreasing herds and the lack of fodder mean a steady falling off in the dairy products of our allies. They have been asking for larger and larger exports from us. Last year we sent them three times as much butter and almost ten times as much condensed milk as we used to send them before the war. Yet we must not only keep up to this level, but do still better.

Why we must send sugar—Before the war France, Italy and Belgium produced as much sugar as they used, while England drew most of its supply from what are now enemy countries. France and Italy are producing less than they need, while England is cut off from the source of 70 per cent of her usual imports. These three allied countries must now have 1,500,000 tons more of sugar than they did before the war from the same sources from which we drew our supplies. We must divide with them. We can do it by economizing. The usual American consumption per person is just double that of France.

MONTPELIER

Police Secured Five Quarts of Whiskey in Raid.

Chief of Police Connolly and Officer Frank Baldwin on Monday afternoon raided the house of Mrs. S. Aebo on Charles street, arresting the woman after they had found five quarts of whiskey. There have been complaints that the woman has been selling. She was brought before Judge E. M. Harvey, where bail was fixed at $300, which Jesse Aja furnished. She has two small children. The case was continued for hearing that she might secure some one who could explain the charge to her and advise her what she has to do in the matter.

Gov. H. F. Graham has received from T. Timorman of Boston a letter stating that as secretary of the Home Folk club of that city, he would like to know the names and addresses of all Vermont boys who became members of Co. B, 102d machine gun battalion, which was formerly troop D, of the Massachusetts state cavalry and into which soldiers from other New England states were assigned before the company went abroad. It is the intention of the club to make a Christmas present to the members of the company and that each member of the company as well as the Massachusetts boys, may receive their share of the gifts the secretary wrote Gov. Graham asking that publicity be given the matter that the names of each Vermont son may be forwarded to the secretary.

Miss Lora Watchie, who has been night operator in the local New England Telephone office for some months, has completed her services and went to her home in Lyndonville Monday afternoon. Miss Watchie had given her resignation, to be effective Nov. 1, so that she might go to her home to care for her mother, but she was called home about ten days ago by the illness of her mother, who suffered for a week with pneumonia, and whose funeral took place last week, so that she has finished work sooner than she expected, having to go to her home to look after the property. During her service here she has made many friends for the company by her genial service. Her place is taken by Miss Josephine Monroe of Bristol, who has been employed in the office since March. A derailment of a freight car on the south leg of the "X" at Montpelier junction about 11:30 o'clock last night, blocked the branch tracks all night and the tracks were not cleared until 7 o'clock this morning, when the wrecking crew from St. Albans arrived and with the big derrick replaced the car on the track. The branch train, in turning in for the night runs, had to use the passing track of the main line. The same train, after leaving the junction following the clearing up of this trouble, blocked two trains at the gravel pit for an hour or more this morning by the pulling out of a drawbar. The delayed trains were the southbound way freight and northbound through freight trains.

The report of the fatal accident to Richard O. Griffiths of Wells has been received in the office of the commissioner of industries. The report is about as much delayed in arrival as any recently received in the office. Mr. Griffiths, while employed by the Roberts State company on July 11, was injured at Wells by a hammer slipping and hitting him in the side, bruising a rib from the effects of which he died July 29 in an Albany, N. Y., hospital.

Loves Carbon ---Hates the Repair Shop

Most repair jobs are motor jobs.

And most of the motor jobs have to do with cleaning carbon and grinding valves.

All over the length and breadth of the land, impatient owners are doing without cars that are out of commission because of carbon troubles.

But the 12,000 owners who bought Willys-Knights last year do not know what carbon troubles mean—never lose a day's use of their cars on account of carbon—never have to drive a carbon-crippled motor.

To them, carbon, the destroyer, is carbon, the rebuilder.

Wouldn't you like to drive a motor that improves with use?

The British "tanks" are Knight-motored.

The Hotel La Salle, Chicago, has installed a fleet of 55 Willys-Knight taxicabs.

The London Omnibus Company before the war was using 3,600 Knight-motored busses on the streets of London.

Five hundred Knight-motored busses are being used in New York by the Fifth Avenue Bus Co.
